

Rashes to Research

SCIENTISTS AND PARENTS CONFRONT
THE 1964 RUBELLA EPIDEMIC

Doctors Harry M. Meyer, Jr. (1928-2001), left, and Paul Parkman (b. 1932), right, developed the rubella vaccine, Bethesda, Maryland, 1967

Courtesy U.S. National Library of Medicine

www.nlm.nih.gov/rashestoresearch

 U.S. National Library of Medicine

 MedlinePlus
Trusted Health Information for You
www.medlineplus.gov

The National Library of Medicine produced this exhibition.

Guest curator: Ashley Bowen, PhD
Designer: HealyKohler Design