In preparation for the first release of the redesigned DOCLINE, currently scheduled for August, NLM is requesting DOCLINE libraries to do the following:

• Review and update library information and holdings records by Friday, June 15. This will ensure that when existing data is imported into the new system it is valid and current.   The editing function will be disabled Monday, June 18.
• Establish a Google account to use for logging into the new DOCLINE.
• Complete the User Form in the existing system via the 'Connect your account today!' homepage link, in order to connect your Google Account to your DOCLINE library or libraries.   See "Transitioning to the new DOCLINE (https://www.nlm.nih.gov/docline/support/path.html) for more information.

A preview period is planned for late summer, during which users can give the new system a try. Users are encouraged to log in and familiarize themselves with the new system, by reviewing and editing library and holdings information imported from the old. During the preview, the existing DOCLINE will remain in use for borrowing and lending.

Please send comments or questions to the DOCLINE Team via the NLM Support Center (https://support.nlm.nih.gov) or your DOCLINE Coordinator (https://go.usa.gov/xQy5X).
