Dear Dan:

A professional medical editor has gone over my paper entitled "Recent Experimental and Clinical Experiences With Antacid Therapy in Peptic Ulcer". Would you mind very much if I ask you to substitute this edited copy for that part of the manuscript which I have already submitted? It would mean keeping all of the tables and figures and substituting only the written data. Even if it means delay of a month in publishing the article I believe that this re-write will make for a little more interesting reading and a better paper than the one you have. If it can be done without too much bother I will appreciate it very much.

Sincerely yours,

Leonidas H. Berry, M.D.
