NEGRO PHYSICIANS AND MEDICAL STUDENTS AFFILIATED WITH CHICAGO HOSPITALS
AND MEDICAL SCHOOLS AS OF OCTOBER 23, 1965

This Commission report updates earlier ones, issued annually since 1960, listing hospital and medical school affiliations of Negro physicians and medical students in Chicago.

Since the last report, issued on October 23, 1964, 18 new hospital staff appointments of Negro physicians in non-governmental hospitals have occurred. During the past year Roseland Community and Franklin Boulevard hospitals appointed Negro doctors for the first time. Currently, 73 Negro doctors hold 112 appointments in 45 non-governmental hospitals excluding Provident, Louise Burg and Ida Mae Scott hospitals, where another 110 Negro physicians are on the staff. (Michigan Avenue Hospital, which had 70 Negro physicians on its medical staff of nearly 200, closed during the year.) Some of these doctors hold employed positions as radiologists, pathologists, etc.; the overwhelming majority of the appointments allow Negro doctors to admit their patients to the hospital.

The number of Negro doctors holding such appointments has more than tripled since 1960 when Mayor Daley appointed a special committee to expand staff positions for Negro physicians in Chicago. At the time of the formation of the committee in September, 1960, 21 Negro doctors held 29 appointments in 12 non-governmental hospitals, excluding Provident, Louise Burg, and Ida Mae Scott. At that time 215 Negroes were practicing medicine in Chicago, representing a declining trend, since 226 were in practice in 1956. This trend has now been reversed and today there are 242 practicing Negro physicians in Chicago.

Forty Negroes are in internship or residency programs in Chicago, compared to 16 in 1961-62. In addition, 19 Negroes are enrolled in the five Chicago medical schools, compared to 14 in 1964.

I. Non-Governmental Hospitals (licensed by the Illinois Department of Public Health and Mental Health)

Different types of appointments are indicated by the numbers appearing in front of the physicians' names:

- (1) Appointments which permit the physician to admit his private patients for treatment in the hospitals.
- (2) Appointments of type which do not carry the above mentioned admitting privileges.
- (3) Resident appointments: training positions in specialties for physicians who are not in private practice.
- (4) Intern appointments: training positions required before a physician may be licensed.
