Dear Henry:

It is very kind of you to take the time to send me a congratulatory note, however, this gesture very much becomes the modest, self effacing, scholarly Henry Harkins whom I have known for so many years.

If I should chance to come out to the northwest before I am too old I shall be very happy to accept your invitation.

I was very much concerned about you last year when I heard about your illness. I hope by now that you have completely recovered and that you are living well within your capacities.

I hope you will have time to look me up when you come back this way again. It has been a long time since I have seen you.

Best of luck and again many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Leonidas
