Dear Bob:

I have been reading disappointing and disturbing news that many other people have become disturbed about. This is simply to state that you have my very best wishes in whatever area and with whatever institution is blessed with the good fortune of your services.

My sincerest regards and best wishes to you and family. Please drop me a note giving me a more definite address and what you will be doing if the latter has been determined.

I have just about completed the writing of a book in which your advice, confidence and help was partly responsible.

Yours very truly,

Leonidas
