Dear Dr Berry,

I have just received your letter dated April 27th. I cannot understand this delay. It is very nice of you to ask me to contribute as an author to your forthcoming book, but I am afraid I must decline this honour. I have now retired and I can hardly be said to have kept myself up to date, and so I do not think a contribution from me would really enhance your book. I wish you all success with it.

Yours sincerely
