Message

"The moving finger writes and having writ—moves on . . ."

Organization is the keynote of the day! From the housewives' leagues to the powerful labor unions, we find organization demanding and getting what it asks for.

Grave problems face the medical profession and while we individually seek to make up our minds on what the answers shall be, other united groups seek to make the plans and present the answers for us and unless we heed the 'handwriting on the wall' we shall find our problems solved, the answers handed to us and we will be a part of a program in which we had no planning and which fails to solve the problems which affect us.

While there is yet time—lend your state organization the cooperation and support it needs to make it your mouthpiece throughout the state and the nation. Make of it your voice. There is safety as well as strength in numbers. Attend your meetings! Give forth your views! Present your solution! Meet the challenge of the hour—let it not be said that the Old Dominion Medical Society failed to heed the warning.

E. D. BURKE, M.D.,
President

"You need your State Organization—it needs you."
