

Traveling Exhibitions

The National Library of Medicine (NLM) Traveling Exhibitions present inspiring stories about history, society, and medicine drawn from the world-renowned collection of NLM.

NLM's Traveling Exhibitions are provided for free to hundreds of libraries and cultural institutions across the U.S. and around the world. These displays help connect visitors to NLM's trusted health information resources.

Each exhibition consists of 6 or 12 lightweight, easy-to-assemble, roll-up banners that can be displayed in a variety of settings.

NLM Traveling Exhibitions provide opportunities to:

Publicize your institution

Partner with the Network of the National Library of Medicine for special training or funding

Establish community partnerships

Develop programs that raise awareness of NLM offerings like MedlinePlus and PubMed

Foster health literacy in your community

National Library of Medicine

nlm.nih.gov

NLM Traveling Exhibitions explore topics related to medicine and the arts, science and society, and patients and practitioners.

Topics include:

- African-American surgeons
- HIV/AIDS in America during the 1980s (available in English and English/Spanish)
- History of lead poisoning in America
- Yellow fever epidemic in 1793

Visitors of all ages learn more about the ways medicine, health, and illness shape our lives.

For more information, contact
NLMTouringExhibits@nih.gov

Traveling Exhibitions are a resource provided by the National Library of Medicine (NLM), part of the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

National Institutes of Health | National Library of Medicine
Bethesda, MD 20894
Customer Service: 1-888-346-3656 | custserv@nlm.nih.gov

Follow NLM:

[facebook.com/
nationallibraryofmedicine](https://facebook.com/nationallibraryofmedicine)

[twitter.com/
nlm_news](https://twitter.com/nlm_news)

[youtube.com/
user/NLMNIH](https://youtube.com/user/NLMNIH)